

IN THE FIELD OF SPORT.

Result of Yesterday's Western Association Games.

STANDING OF THE BALL CLUBS

Various Events of Interest Transpiring on the Turf and Diamond—Sporting News and Gossip.

Standing of the Clubs.

Table showing standings of various baseball clubs including St. Paul, Omaha, Des Moines, etc.

MINNEAPOLIS 18, ST. JOSEPH 9.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 3.—The Millers won, today, in a slugger contest in which they slugged twice as hard as St. Joe, and piled up twice as many runs. Knell was knocked out of the box. Score:

Scorecard for the game between Minneapolis and St. Joseph.

BY INNINGS.

Runs earned—Minneapolis 12, St. Joseph 1.

DESMOINES 18, DENVER 5.

DESMOINES, June 3.—Fagan was wild and frooly hit, giving the game to Des Moines. Score:

Scorecard for the game between Des Moines and Denver.

AMATEUR GAMES.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The Norfolk and Atkinson ball clubs met today. Norfolk made all its tallies in the first two innings. Atkinson got one in the third, two in the fifth and two in the sixth—total, 5, to Norfolk 5.

Batteries—Atkinson, McVicker and Butler; Norfolk, Lockwood and Wilson.

NORFOLK—Reynolds.

BASE BALL.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—Result of today's game:

PITTSBURG 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1

PHILADELPHIA 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

BOSTON, June 3.—Result of today's game:

BOSTON 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

PHILADELPHIA 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

BALTIMORE, June 3.—Result of the first game:

BALTIMORE 2 0 0 0 1 1 1 1 5

CINCINNATI 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

BROOKLYN, June 1.—Result of today's game:

BROOKLYN 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2

COLUMBUS, June 3.—Result of today's game:

COLUMBUS 0 0 2 1 0 0 1 1 7

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Result of today's game:

ST. LOUIS 3 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 11

GAMES POSTPONED.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The Louisville did not arrive, to-day, and the game with the Athletics goes over.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The New York-Washington game was called at the end of the fourth inning on account of heavy rain.

MILWAUKEE, June 3.—The Milwaukee-Omaha game, to-day, was prevented by rain.

Articles of Agreement.

Articles of agreement entered into this, the 31st day of June, 1890, by and between Dr. E. C. Weatherly, for Miss Lottie Stanley, of New York, of the first part, and E. S. Flegg, for Miss Lily Williams, of Omaha, of the second part, for a six-day, three hours per day, bicycle race, to take place in this city, at the Coliseum building, beginning Monday, June 10, and running to the 15th, inclusive, for a stake of $250 a side and 50 per cent of the gate receipts. The $250 forfeit is herewith increased to the full amount of the stake of $500 a side, which is deposited with THE BEE. E. S. Flegg and Miss Lily Williams mutually agreed upon as referee.

EDWARD C. WEATHERLY, For Lottie Stanley.

E. S. FLEGG, For Lily Williams.

Witnesses—W. Niles and W. C. Gregory.

Frouting at Kearney.

Kearney, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Entries for the Kearney Trotting association's register closed this evening. There are sixty-eight horses on the grounds to take part in the races, which will begin to-morrow afternoon. You bet and running mate, of Council Bluffs, are here and will give exhibitions of speed during the week, and will attempt, on Thursday, to lower her record for a purse of $500. The track is in good condition and horsemen are jubilant over the coming event.

WYOMING WANTS STATEHOOD.

Governor Warren's Proclamation for Holding an Election.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—At the last session of congress a bill was unanimously reported to the senate, by the senate committee on territories, making provision for the admission of Wyoming as a state. This bill provided for the issuance of a proclamation on the first Monday in June for the election of delegates to a constitutional convention. The election of delegates takes place on the second Monday of July. The convention is to be held on the first Monday in September and the constitution submitted to the people for ratification or rejection the following November.

Under the provisions of the bill, the number of delegates is limited to fifty-five, and the proclamation for an election is to be issued by the governor, after the appointment of the governor, chief justice and secretary of the territory.

Following the provisions of the bill, the officials named met this afternoon and discussed the territory into ten delegate districts, to correspond with the several counties as they now exist. The representation was then based upon the vote cast for delegate in congress, at the election last November.

This was the action of the committee on this, Laramie county, gets 11 delegates; Albany, 8; Carbon, 8; Sweetwater, 5; Uintah, 6; Fremont, 3; Sheridan, 3; Johnson, 3; Crook, 4; and Converse, 4—56 in all. Anybody qualified to vote at a general election in the territory is qualified to vote for constitutional delegates, and anyone eligible to a seat in the legislature is eligible to election as a delegate.

Among other things, Governor Warren, in his proclamation, says: "Recognizing the superior and material advantages of a state government over our territorial system, and being desirous of carrying into effect the will of the people, I, Francis E. Warren, governor of the Territory of Wyoming, do hereby proclaim to the people of the territory, recommending that they take such action on their part as may be necessary for the admission of Wyoming as a state into the union of states; and for this purpose, I direct that an election be held throughout the territory on the second Monday of July, 1890, for the election of delegates to a constitutional convention at Cheyenne, the capital of the territory, at 12 o'clock noon, of the first Monday of September, 1890, for the purpose of framing a constitution, for the State of Wyoming, and for the purpose of submitting such constitution to the people thereof, for their ratification or rejection."

The prevailing sentiment is that partisanship should be laid aside in this matter and the most representative men be elected as delegates regardless of party. It is now probable that no party conventions will be held. The central committee of each party is to be organized on the 15th inst. and to elect eleven delegates. Each committee will select five representative men of its party, and he does not think the delegates will subsequently fix upon the eleventh man.

The commissioners of eight counties have already signified that their counties will be represented on an equal basis, which, under the proposed method, will be started. The people now feel that they are in the right direction to secure a speedy and successful result.

They are looking to neighboring states for aid in this work.

Through Rates Very Shaky.

CHICAGO, June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The withdrawal of the Southern Pacific from the Transcontinental association has caused a very shaky condition. Sift Agent Lee, of the Canadian Pacific, to-day: "The Transcontinental association is bursted higher than a kite by the withdrawal of the Southern Pacific. Of course, they withdraw because we were getting so much traffic, but I don't see how it is going to help them any. They threaten all manner of things that will reduce rates, but they forget that we will meet their rates, or those of anyone else. We haven't worked up our part of business, and they are getting it away from us until we learn what the Southern Pacific will do."

Neither through nor local east and west freight rates are perfect first. The Western Freight association will consider the Burlington & Northern reduction to-morrow, but there seems no way out of that difficulty but to let the American Pacific rates already met by the Burlington & Northern.

Town Site Swindle.

DENVER, Colo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The police are interested in one Pierce, doing business in the Commercial building, St. Louis. He issued circulars stating that he had platted in the town of Plainfield, seventeen miles west from Denver, and would give alternate lots to those who would purchase them confidentially. The cost of making and recording deeds was given as $5.00. Would the police please see this man and give him about one thousand people considered to do so. There is no such town as Plainfield. Pierce has caught suckers in several states.

A Despicable Deputy-Sheriff.

BUFFALO, Wyo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—News was received here, to-day, that Sam Williams, deputy-sheriff for Johnson county, in the Big Horn basin, has been compelled to leave the country to escape lynching by the cowboys, who detected him in the act of committing a nameless crime. The cost of making and recording deeds was given as $5.00. Would the police please see this man and give him about one thousand people considered to do so. There is no such town as Plainfield. Pierce has caught suckers in several states.

Rain in South Dakota.

PERRIS, Dak., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—A heavy rain visited this section of South Dakota to-day, doing great good to the crops.

Trouble in the Third Ward.

Councilman Ford was arrested last evening after assaulting a man named Solon, at the Third ward polls. Shortly after being released from custody, he became involved in a difficulty with another man, and was again arrested. Solon was also arrested, charged with striking a man and with using obscene language. Solon claims that Ford was the cause of all the trouble.

Funeral of Thomas O'Brien.

George O'Brien yesterday was appointed administrator of the estate of Thomas H. O'Brien, whose remains were buried from Drexel & Manly's undertaking rooms yesterday. The application was granted. The deceased has no relatives in Nebraska as far as could be learned last night, and his only heirs are in New York, which still remains in the hands of Coroner Drexel.

WHICH WAS THE PRETTIER?

Two Women Fight About the Charm of Their Chinese Husbands.

It is commonly supposed that white girls marry Chinamen simply for the sake of procuring money. The following interesting item from the New York World proves that they sometimes regard their Mongolian lords as very proper men: The white wives of two almond-eyed Mongolians, living in the East End of New York, were so jealous of each other they invoked the aid of an ex-tyrant to settle the points in controversy. Jennie Brown is the reputed wife of Mook Lung, who keeps a laundry with a small optum joint at the corner of the street where lives Sarah, the warm-haired "wife" of Wun Mo Jung, who washes shirts on a big scale in his two Philadelphia laundries, which requires his absence from home most of the time.

The only bone of contention between the women has been the "beauty" of their respective husbands. Last evening Sarah taunted Jennie with being "Irish" and not good enough for the handsome Mook Lung. Thereupon Jennie went for Sarah's Auburn tresses, but before she had dragged her a couple of yards across the room Sarah seized an ugly looking hatchet and aimed it straight at Jennie's head.

Mook Lung was on hand in a twinkling in his own room and rushed just in time to see the uplifted hatchet. He leaped toward the vixens and in attempting to ward off the blow intended for his wife his hand got the full force of the blow from the hatchet. Sarah fled, but was quickly captured and locked up in the Elizabeth street station. Mook Lung's thumb was severed from his hand.

Taking all things into consideration, the one animal of most importance to mankind is the draft horse. Not any special breed of horse, but horses used for draft purposes, as many are so used that they do not belong to any of the special draft breeds.

remains of the Greenville bridge. From Altoona westward on the main line the track is open for a mile and a half. It is here where the bridge was washed away Friday. Between South Fork and Johnston 1,000 feet of the bridge was carried away in shape. At Johnston and west of there several large gangs of workmen are employed. It is not believed passengers can be carried over the bridge to Pittsburg over the main line in a week or ten days. As to the transportation of freight and mails nothing definite can be learned. No direct intelligence any sort has been received from Leckheim since 9 o'clock Friday night. The dispatch then received stated the lumber boom had broken and the towers were flooded. The widest kind of rumors are received in regard to the situation at that place, but they lack confirmation. It is believed, however, that masses of property at that place will be enormous.

Subsiding at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 3.—The great flood is over, the river having reached its maximum height. The water is slowly subsiding. The entire eastern and southern portions of the city are still under water and the people have to reach their homes in boats.

William Strange, of Paxton, stepped into his back yard last evening where there was five feet of water and was swept away and drowned before his wife and family.

A man named Holstein, with his wife and family, were being taken from their home at Steelton to a place of safety in a boat, when a log struck the boat and threw them all into the water. All were saved but Mrs. Holstein and her baby.

Governor Beaver has received a call from troops from Sheriff McCandless, of Allegheny county, who telegraphs that the situation is serious and that it is necessary to send at least four regiments of National guards to prevent pillage, robbery and bloodshed. Adjutant-General Hastings telegraphs that he does not think the troops necessary. The governor, although perceiving no necessity for calling out troops, has ordered a regiment of militia to march to the scene of the disaster.

General Hastings also telegraphed to the manager of the postal telegraph company, that he had decorated and adorned because of the many deaths and injuries that were made. The flowers, the wreath, the lace veil were undisturbed and unsoiled. The marks on the wall showed that the surface had been broken up by the water. The feet, while the statue, which is only three feet high, had been saved from all contact with the liquid. Everyone that has seen the statue and its surroundings are convinced the incident was a miraculous one. Even to the most skeptical there are about thirty Catholic priests and nuns here, who are devoting themselves to the care of the sick and injured. Bishop Kelly has ordered the priests of this neighborhood and all are devoting themselves to the hard work assiduously. What the hospitals are doing is done with the greatest care and attention. Among the priests here are Revs. Father Guiden, Gabriel, Contrabe, Gallagher, Troutman, Monsignor Dorsey, and Dr. Dartin, Smith, O'Connell and Lambing.

J. J. Murphy, a bookseller of Pittsburg, has been seeking for his remains. Every fragment of his remains set him to anxious inquiry, but as yet he has not discovered them.

P. S. Frazier, a Pittsburg lawyer, was trapping among the ruins looking like a "rat" in a "trap" and was nearly killed by the family of four was almost drowned, but managed to escape after an exciting experience. His wife and two children were also saved.

Where Woodlark's Oxen Stood.

There is now a sea of mud, broken but rarely by a pile of wreckage. The Associated press correspondent waded through the mud to get a view of the site. The remains of the former village. As has been often stated, nothing is standing. The place is swept bare of all other buildings and the ruins of the Glatier and Miller. The boilers of these great works were carried 100 yards from their foundation. Pieces of engine and boiler are scattered far away from where they once stood. The wreck of a horse carriage is sticking up out of the mud. It belonged to the crack team of John Woodlark, who was killed and swept away and the cellar is filled with mud so that the site is obliterated.

The German vessel, the Perry, the only one at all on the hills. It is thought that the canal has been irreparably ruined, and although the bridge over the tunnel is still standing, the bridge spanning the Shenandoah is destroyed.

The Chemung Valley Devastated.

ELMHUR, N. Y., June 3.—The Northern Central railroad will not be open for a week. The damage to property in this city and vicinity is estimated at half a million. The crops throughout the Chemung valley are almost totally destroyed. The Fall Brook railroad has lost two bridges and the track is badly washed out. The lives of many of the citizens are said to have been lost at Corning.

Chicago Will Contribute.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Chicago's contributions to the Johnston sufferers will be large. The board of trade, business houses and factories are raising subscriptions. Two members of the committee on the board of trade raised $2,000 in two hours. In advance of the committee's report, the board of trade has arranged to contribute $25,000 for the relief of the Johnston sufferers by private individuals.

English Sympathy.

LONDON, June 3.—The papers discussing the terrible disaster in Pennsylvania say that the sympathy of the whole civilized world will be with the people of Pennsylvania in the hour of their sorrow. The sympathy of the English race.

$25,000 for the Sufferers.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 3.—The house, to-day, concurred with the senate in appropriating $25,000 for the sufferers in Pennsylvania.

Aid for the Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Waterman and Mayor Pond, of this city, have issued proclamations calling of the people to aid the sufferers from the floods in Pennsylvania.

Some Wyoming News.

LARAMIE, Wyo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—A telegram received here to-day states that the wife and three children of William Stewart, Union Pacific engineer of this city, have probably perished in the boat wreck at Harrisburg. Mr. Stewart has left for Pennsylvania.

Bright Detectives.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 3.—It has just come to light that an under sheriff from Johnson county, and Officers Pound and George, of this city, were the first to see the remains of one of Lincoln's reputable young ladies, who died during the past terrible days. It is a fact, although a disagreeable one to feel, that the bodies which were buried in the ground were the bodies of the young ladies who were taken from their homes. Miss Smiley says she will appeal to the law if she receives any more such visits.

Architect Meyers Dismissed.

DENVER, Colo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Architect E. E. Meyers was, to-day, dismissed by the board of capital managers. He planned the capital building now being erected here. The members of the board refuse to give any reason for his being very indignant and says he was never so insulted before, and will carry the case to the courts.

Spring Valley Quiet.

CHICAGO, June 3.—A Spring Valley, Ill., special says everything is quiet at the mines, but the strikers are ugly and trouble is feared. It is believed the militia will be able to protect the working miners.

GANDY WAS FOUND GUILTY.

Will Be Sentenced on Thursday and an Appeal Will Follow.

NEBRASKANS IN JOHNSTOWN.

Suicide of a Prominent Man at York—Hayden's Identity Doubted—A Political Muddle.

Gandy Found Guilty.

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—At 5:30, this evening, the jury in the Gandy case rendered a verdict of guilty, being out since 11 o'clock, Saturday night. It was reported, this morning, when they called for the judge, that the jury had been out since 11 o'clock. They were brought in and reported progress. At 4:00 they told the judge it seemed as if they could not agree. Being sent back they reported as given above. There were but few people in the court room when the verdict was rendered. The jury looked tired and worn out. The judge kindly thanked them for their efforts and the jury was discharged. Court adjourned until 3 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, when the motion for a new trial will be heard and the famous Gandy sentence. The case will, of course, go to the supreme court, as has been suggested before. It is now fully developed that an attempt will be made to prove that a juror had expressed an opinion. His name is not given, but it is said to be that of a juror. Some affidavits have already been secured, but it is said only one man of any reputation for truth at all has signed them. The juror, it is said, was named Hayden, and the matter, Judge Broadly said in court that he paid no attention to such things.

Nebraska People Lost.

CLAY CENTER, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Ed Davis, sheriff of Clay county, received a telegram from Johnston, Pa., this morning, notifying him that his mother and his wife's brother had been killed in the disaster. Mr. Davis and wife started for the scene of the great disaster this evening.

Had Relatives There.

COLUMBIA, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Dr. C. D. Evans, of this city, received a telegram, to-day, announcing the death of his sister, her three children and her husband in the Johnston disaster. He expects to receive, at any moment, the sad news of the loss of other relations, as a number were living there. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to him.

A Slight Political Muddle.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., June 3.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Senator Nesbitt has just returned from the east, where he has been, pending the session of his former body. It is understood, but not yet beyond repair. And thereby hangs a tale, which will be interesting reading with full particulars. It is possible to give only a short synopsis of the situation as regards the North Platte land office, its applicants and their chances. Within sixty days after the election when the legislature met in January, soon after, and once fairly settled in harness, Senator Nesbitt, induced by the representations of his many friends at the capital, allowed his name to be used for the position of United States attorney. He was, of course, virtually resigning his pretensions to the land office. At least it was so understood by his friends. A few days after the legislature met, Nesbitt was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants for political honors. After the legislature met, the land office scramble had cleared away, the field was left to Jewett and Baldwin, with the odds in Baldwin's favor. Senator Nesbitt, however, was not content with the position of United States attorney, and he was elected to the position of United States attorney, and he was elected with nearly all of the old aspirants for register, five or six names were entered for the office, of which J. C. Patterson and William Woodruff were the most prominent. J. W. Woodruff, of Lexington, and A. S. Baldwin of Lexington, were the most prominent. In the race for the position of United States attorney, Nesbitt's former supporters were in demand and gave their support to one or the other of the new applicants